

LITTLE RED

Ireland, 2016.

With Irish microbreweries eating into their profits due to far superior beers and their innovations in brewing, evil 'H-Corp' executives hatch a dastardly plan.

At H-Corp Headquarters, YellowBelly discovers that their tasteless 'H-Brew' was being re-labeled with different Irish sounding names to dupe the mighty craft beer drinking warriors of Ireland.

Just as our hero was formulating a plan on how to foil their operations, a bottle fell from the production line, releasing a foul smell into the air and attracting one of H-Corp's werewolf minions.

YellowBelly threw his mighty wrench at the beast but was reflected off its dull hide, leaving him unprotected. All hope seemed to be lost.... the end of great tasting beer... for good...

WHOOSH. Suddenly the beast was hit with two bolts from a crossbow. A shadowy figure emerged and introduced herself only as RED. "Come with me if you want to save great beer" she beckoned.

RED hands YellowBelly an axe dipped in 'BOOM' by Stone Barrel Brewing.

"Only true Irish craft beer will defeat these monsters" shouted RED and she reloaded bolts tipped with Whiplash's 'Rollover'.

RED and YellowBelly fought their way valiantly through the hordes of werewolf minions towards the heart of H-Corp Headquarters in an effort to find a way to shut down the production line.

Luckily, just as they ran out of 'Boundary Brewing' grenades, they happened across the control room. Wired across H-Corp was a self-destruct system that the executives had rigged in the event of their plans being uncovered.

Click. BOOM!!! The H-Corp executives could only look on as RED and YellowBelly dived in slow-motion through a window to a soundtrack of AC/DC's 'Back in Black'.

Irish craft beer was safe. But for how long? RED and YellowBelly parted ways, but not before forming a pact - To protect the mighty craft beer drinkers of Ireland and thwarting other evil plans similar to H-Corp. Because in their hearts, they new something bigger was brewing...